

BERLIN IS ABLAZE WITH FESTIVITIES.THIS IS THE GREAT DAY OF CELEBRATION.

Emperor's Birth And the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the German Occupation of Paris are Commemorated At the Same Time--Bismarck's Reconciliation Causes Joy.

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—The emperor's birthday and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the entrance of the Prussian army into Paris was celebrated today. It brought especial rejoicing because of the reconciliation with Prince Bismarck. Bismarck's welcome has been a wonderful one. The cheering and salutations from the crowds that had gathered to witness his entry into the city evidently pleased him very much. He smiled in response to the cries of welcome and saluted the crowd frequently. Most of the houses along the route were decorated with flags. The entire population of Berlin, swelled by thousands of people from all parts of Germany, had apparently turned out to welcome the return of the prince, and the younger element in the crowds cheered themselves hoarse as the state coach passed along.

When the party arrived at the castle Prince Bismarck and Prince Henry descended from the state coach and entered. The emperor's reception of the old statesman was of the warmest and most cordial nature. His majesty embraced the prince with the utmost heartiness, and a kiss pressed on the old man's cheek sealed the reconciliation between the emperor and the greatest of his subjects. Prince Bismarck's gravity of demeanor during his reception by his majesty was much commented upon.

After leaving the Empress Frederick's palace the people, who were densely massed in the vicinity broke through the police lines and tried to unhitch the horses harnessed to the prince's carriage. They wanted themselves to draw him back to the castle. The police, however, prevailed upon them to forego their intention. The crowd was so thick that it was impossible for the horses to go faster than a slow walk, and as the carriage moved along the crowd surged forward with it, everybody joining in singing patriotic songs.

STATE A. P. A. OFFICERS.

C. P. Johnson of Springfield Is Elected President.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Jan. 27.—The American Protective association state convention came to an end at 7 o'clock yesterday morning after holding an all night session. The last work was the election of officers, and a long dawn out contest took place over the choice of a president. Everything was kept secret, but enough is known to say that Gen. A. C. Hawley of Chicago was a candidate, as was also C. P. Johnson of Springfield, and that Johnson was elected. William D. Newton of this city was selected secretary, and his salary was fixed at $1,500. The delegates have all taken their departure. Absolute secrecy has been observed throughout the sessions.

HOUSE DOING BUSINESS.

Adjournment Resolutions Sidetracked by Colorado Legislators.

DENVER, Jan. 27.—The house does not want to be bothered with resolutions to adjourn at any definite time. The Bonyne resolution to adjourn at the end of this week was indefinitely postponed yesterday. Two adjournment resolutions were offered and they will probably be voted down. The house then resolved itself into committee of the whole, with Mr. Fitzgerald in the chair. From the amount of business on hand the house will not be ready to adjourn for a week.

Khedive Backs Down.

CAIRO, Jan. 27.—The khedive has acceded to the demand made upon him by Lord Cromer, the British diplomatic agent here, that he publish a formal retraction of the strictures he recently passed upon the army and issue an order praising its condition and the efficiency of the British and Egyptian officers. Maher Pasha, assistant minister of war, who was charged with inciting the khedive to make his hostile criticisms, has been transferred by the khedive.

Horrible Suicide at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 27.—Joseph Anselm's dead body was found in a vat of boiling water at Snider's wholesale leather house on South Meridian street. His body was in a horrible condition.

The chances are that Brown will die of his wounds.

R. G. DUNN'S REVIEW OF TRADE

Business of the Country Shows Improvement.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Bradstreet's report says: The improvement in industrial and commercial lines heretofore reported continues to grow moderately and shows gains from week to week, although more conspicuously in manufacturing than in commercial lines. This is indicated by the records of sixty-two resumptions of more important manufacturing establishments this week compared with seventeen shut-downs, and by the total of $840,227,000, the bank clearings of the week at fifty-four cities, which is 9 per cent smaller than in the preceding week and 31 per cent smaller than in the like week last year.

More conspicuous increases in sales by the jobbers of dry goods, clothing, shoes, and hats, while improvement in the industrial situation is reported is reported from Lewiston, Maine, Newark, and Pittsburgh. There is a much better demand for iron, although at cut prices, and quotations in some lines of iron and steel are below figures at which it was supposed possible to produce. Sales of raw wool are larger, notably at Boston, although quotations are shaded. Eastern cotton mills are active, but product is not selling freely.

Aside from the depressing influence of an unprecedentedly low range of prices for leading staples, a heavy drag on general trade now is uncertainty as to the outcome of the tariff legislation. Stocks of available wheat decreased in the United States, both coasts, last week 761,000 bushels, in Europe and afloat for Europe 472,000 bushels, and increased in Australia 1,900,000 bushels. Receipts of cotton for five months of the current cotton year are about 6,075,000 bales, 15 per cent more than in the corresponding period last year.

Bradstreet's annual analysis is of more than 17,000 business failures in the United States and Canada last year shows a net gain of more than 8,000 in the total business population in the United States in 1893 compared with 1892, notwithstanding panic and depression during seven months of last year.

Exports of wheat in the United States and Canada, both coasts (flour included as wheat) equal 2,947,000 bushels this week, 2 per cent less than last week, but 16 per cent more than in the week a year ago, and 15 per cent less than in the week two years ago.

There is continued improvement in Chicago in wholesale lines, notably clothing, shoes, hardware and groceries. St. Louis reports sales of hats in good volume for February and March delivery, that shoe manufacturers are employing more operatives, and that merchant and pig iron markets continue to improve. The movement of merchandise at Kansas City opened fairly this week, but severe storms have checked it. Money is accumulating at that city.

Trade is better at Omaha, due in part to demand caused by change in the weather. Shoes are selling well, but live stock prices are lower. There is no change at Milwaukee nor at St. Paul, except a moderate check in dealings, due to the weather, accompanied by more activity in hardware. At Minneapolis jobbing in some lines compares favorably with that in previous Januarys, while at Duluth the previous week, and collections are no better.

Failures in the United States were 440 this week, against 255 last year, and 55 in Canada, against 40 last year. None are of great magnitude.

PERISHED IN THE BLIZZARD.

Many Fatalities During Tuesday Night's Storm in the Cherokee Strip.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Jan. 27.—Reports are just coming in of people who perished during the terrific blizzard of Tuesday night. One family of three were frozen to death in Cheyenne county. A woman named Morrison and her children were found frozen in Pawnee county. An unknown tramp was found frozen on a Santa Fe train in the strip. John Carter, a teamster of Orlando, had both hands so badly frozen that amputation will be necessary, and there are undoubtedly other fatalities. The suffering among the new settlers was terrible and many are ill from exposure.

Organized Labor on the Warpath.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 27.—There is considerable talk in organized labor circles of filing an injunction to restrain S. H. H. Clark, Oliver W. Mink, John W. Doane, E. Ellery Anderson and Frederick Coudert, receivers of the Union Pacific system, from enforcing the proposed new schedule of salaries. Certain it is that the men will not submit to the new schedule without making a fight and it is more than probable they will resort to injunctions, as this seems the popular way of settling grievances.

Pacific Railroad Obligations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Chairman Reilly of the house committee on Pacific railroads has had frequent conferences of late with Senator Brice, chairman of the senate committee, and the two have also seen Secretary Carlisle and Attorney General Olney with a view to determining on some line of legislation made necessary by the fact that the great debt owed by the roads is fast maturing. Mr. Reilly hopes both committees will soon determine upon a policy which will secure the government against loss without action which would be harmful to the Pacific railroads.

Before making the levy, Deputy Lee got personal service on Mrs. Palmer at her home, 31 Park avenue.

THE TARIFF FIGHT GOES ON.

Opponents of the Income Tax Seek to Prevent Its Addition.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Bourke Cockran resumed his fight on the income tax in the house yesterday by suggesting the absence of a quorum. This was a continuance of his dilatory tactics of yesterday, when he tried to prevent the offering of an amendment tacking the revenue bill, with the income-tax attachment, onto the tariff bill. During the call of the roll enough members strolled in to complete a quorum. Mr. Cockran called attention to this fact and withdrew his point of order, and the rollcall was discontinued.

A lively tilt occurred between Mr. Reed (rep.) of Maine and Mr. Bynum (dem.) of Indiana. It was a question of improper quotation, Mr. Reed charging Mr. Bynum with having so misquoted a statement of his (Reed's) as to destroy its force. Mr. Bynum denied that by leaving off a portion of the sentence he had destroyed the sense of Mr. Reed's expression.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill. Some unimportant amendments, proposed by Mr. Wilson (dem.) of West Virginia, were agreed to without debate. Mr. Wilson also offered an amendment reducing the duty on diamonds and precious stones of all kinds from 15 per cent to 10 per cent ad valorem, causing a lively debate.

Mr. Holman (dem.) of Indiana, offered an amendment to the amendment raising the duty from 15 per cent to 30 per cent.

Mr. Alderson (dem.) of West Virginia offered a substitute increasing the duty from 15 per cent to 50 per cent on cut diamonds and 25 per cent if rough or uncut.

Mr. Alderson (dem.) of West Virginia withdrew his former amendment imposing a duty of 50 per cent on cut diamonds and substituted for it one providing that precious stones of all kinds, cut but not set, shall pay a duty of 30 per cent ad valorem; on precious stones, if not especially provided for in this act, including pearls, set or strung, 35 per cent ad valorem; on uncut precious stones, 15 per cent ad valorem. This substitute was adopted.

Mr. Onthwaite offered an amendment to the tinsplate schedule, the object of which was to reduce the tariff from one and one-fifth cents per pound to one cent.

Mr. Dalzell (rep., Pa.) spoke earnestly for protection of the tinsplate industry.

Mr. Breckinridge (dem., Ky.) offered a substitute, putting tinsplate on the free list, and spoke in favor of his proposition.

Mr. Coombs (dem., N. Y.) opposed Mr. Breckinridge's amendment. Mr. Dolliver (rep., Iowa) sent to the clerk's desk and had read a letter from a democratic manufacturer saying that within a year or two, if the present law is not interfered with, the people could use American tinsplate instead of rotten English tinsplate.

Mr. Simpson (pop., Kan.) supported the amendment to put tinsplate on the free list.

After further discussion Mr. Breckinridge offered to withdraw his amendment, but objection was made by Mr. Johnson (dem., Ohio). Then the amendment was voted down—yeas, 30; nays, 184.

The question was then taken on an amendment offered by Mr. Dalzell (rep., Pa.) to substitute the tinsplate paragraph of the McKinley law for that in the pending bill and it was defeated—86 yeas and 144 nays. Mr. Onthwaite's proposition was divided and the question was first taken on reducing the rate from 1-1/5 cents a pound to 1 cent. It was rejected by 77 yeas to 136 nays. The second part of his amendment, providing that no rebate shall be allowed, was also defeated without a division.

Mr. Boutelle (rep., Maine) moved to substitute the lumber paragraph in the McKinley act for that reported in the Wilson bill, and made an argument in support of that amendment.

Mr. Oates (dem., Ala.) replied to Mr. Boutelle, and quoted against his argument the bills to allow lumber free of duty in the case of the great fires in Chicago and Eastport.

Mr. Shaw (rep., Wis.) spoke of the "theoretical" position of the committee on ways and means that lumber was a raw material, and asked the majority members of that committee if they did not know that 60 per cent of the output of lumber had received its last touches as a manufactured product.

A joint resolution protesting against the passage by congress of the Wilson bill came over from the house. Senator Perry (dem.) offered an amendment favoring the Wilson bill, and he made an extended speech in favor of it. The amendment was voted down by 11 yeas, 33 nays, and the original resolution was adopted by a strict party vote.

Immigration Law Unconstitutional.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 27.—The Supreme court has declared the act passed by the legislature in 1891 regarding the right of the state to limit immigration is unconstitutional. The case was that of a Chinaman arrested for unlawfully remaining in the state. The act provides for deportation, but the court decides that the power thus attempted to be exercised belongs exclusively to the general government.

Deadlock in Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 27.—Little change has taken place in the senatorial situation here and the deadlock is no nearer solution now than on the first ballot. On the twenty-first and last ballot the vote stood: Campbell, 26; McLaurin, 34; Allen, 31; Taylor, 31; Lowry, 12; Catchings, 1. Gen. T. M. Miller was withdrawn on the twentieth ballot.

LIKELY TO CONVICT THE BANDITS.

Strong Evidence Against Train Robbers--Murder Trial at Rockford.

LINCOLN, Ill., Jan. 27.—The trial of Woodward, Vanmeter and Howe, who are charged with attempting to hold up a Peoria, Decatur & Evansville passenger train near this city Nov. 13, occupied the time yesterday in the Circuit court. Ten witnesses testified, and it is generally conceded the state has made a strong case against the prisoners. The defendants were put on the stand in the evening and testified in their own behalf. They failed to prove an alibi.

ALL THE EVIDENCE IS IN.

But One-Third of the State Witnesses in the Hart Case Called.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Jan. 27.—State's Attorney Frost sprung a surprise in the Hart murder trial in the middle of the afternoon yesterday by announcing that the state had presented its case. Fifty-three witnesses had been summoned, and up to the morning but fifteen had been examined. The state's attorney said he thought the facts had all been established, and that he could afford to stop. Judge Shaw adjourned court until Monday. The evidence yesterday was simply a repetition of the story of the crime and Hart's capture. The witnesses were pushed through all the more rapidly because the defense is not contesting the point that Hart committed the deed. The most significant evidence of the day was that of Henry Sperring, the barber who was shaving Hart when he was arrested, and Officer Erickson, the policeman who made the arrest. Both testified that Hart told the officer his name was Wilson and that he resided in Chicago.

Police Break Up Desperate Gang.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 27.—Jack Barnes and William Wiseman, two of the four negroes who brutally beat and robbed a farmer, Fred Beene, and his wife and Fred Fischer, their hired man, at Florissant, St. Louis county, the night of Jan. 11, were arrested yesterday and the other two are known to the police. Both men confess their guilt. The police officials have learned enough recently to convince them that these negroes, together with the Murray boys, indicted for the murder of Edgar Fitzgerald and Charles Williams, believed to be the murderer of Banker McCulloch, and the negroes who held up and shot Farmer Fitzgerald about two weeks ago, are all members of an organized gang who have been terrifying the county for the last six months.

Y.) introduced a bill in the house providing for a popular loan by the issue of 3 per cent bonds, to be issued in sums of $20 and such multiples thereof as may be determined and redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after ten years.

Plot to Murder President Frye.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 27.—A plot to kill President Frye of the Pittsburgh district of the United Mine-Workers' union was frustrated yesterday. The non-English-speaking coal miners in the vicinity of Mansfield are in a violent state of excitement because the convention did not declare a strike for the 79-cent rate. It is said the life of Secretary-Treasurer McBryde of the same organization was similarly endangered a week ago. According to Mrs. Davis young Pease broke down and cried when she recognized him.

BIG NIGHT FOR ALL OF SCOTTISH LINE

BURNS PARTY A GREATER SUCCESS THAN EVER.

Almost $1,200 Taken in at the Ticket Window—M. G. Jeffris Pays an Eloquent Tribute to the Bard of Ayr—Governor Peck as Hotel Clerk.

Nobody was sorry he was Scotch last night.

The least touch of "Hieland" twang gave entry to the jolliest company that Janesville sees in a twelve month. Robert Burns' 135th anniversary was the occasion, and it was royally celebrated.

The Rock County Caledonian Association has put forward good programmes, but never one as full of spice and variety as that of '94. A trifle over $1,200 in the money drawer told how people appreciated it.

The key to the evening's fun was given by Smith's orchestra in an overture of Scotch airs. President Mills welcomed the audience.

"It affords us great pleasure," he said, "to again meet you at this time, to celebrate the birthday of our favorite poet, Robert Burns. We are confident our society has been established on principles that cannot fail to meet the approval of our friends. During the last eight years our membership has been steadily increasing until we now number about one hundred and forty. Our social gatherings and annual games are enjoyed by all, and the exhibition of athletic sports held last August has never been excelled in this county. While we endeavor to amuse, entertain and instruct we are not forgetful of the suffering and sadness of the world. The presence of so large an audience is a strong compliment to our society. We have endeavored to present you this evening an entertainment that will be pleasing and enjoyable. Ladies and gentlemen, in behalf of the Caledonian Society I extend to you a cordial welcome."

PRESIDENT MILLS GREETED A FULL HOUSE.

Macolm G. Jeffris delivered the address of the evening his subject being "Robert Burns." His tribute to Scotland and her poet was an eloquent one. "From Cape Wrath to Solway Firth the rugged hills of Scotland make giant stepping stones for a mighty people," he said, "rising from a race of savages, fighting generation after generation for rights, intermingling with the best blood of earth the people of old Caledonia have taken a front position in the progress of the civilization of the world. Nature never turned her cornucopia upside down in their land, but rather leaned against the hillside so that it was necessary to climb and toil to gather any of the fruits. The land was one who gave no uncertain answer when the question was

"Who can fill a coward's grave?" "Who can base as be a slave?" "Men who laid the proud usurpers low at Bannockburn and accepted utter annihilation rather than defeat

he believed he read everything that Burns ever wrote or ever thought of writing. "A man's a man for a' that," he insisted, had done more to christianize the world than have a dozen brick churches.

Captain Jack Crawford, the poet scout was a disappointment to the small boys in the audience. They wanted to see buck skin and six shooters. All they got to remind them of the "wild and fuzzy west" as Crawford called it was a lot of long hair and good cowboy stories. The captain's share of the entertainment was unique and interesting. He began by telling how Professor Fred Spencer, electrified him and the rest of the people in a western army post by making the camp violin talk, weep and sing. Then he went on to recite "Bicycle vs Broncho" following it later in the evening by "Cowboy's Sermon" and several short poems full of truth and sentiment.

Miss Kate Campbell, of Chicago, who had won Janesville favor on others occasions, read "The Highlander's Toast" and "At the Gate." Later in the evening she gave several other selections, one a humorous Scotch story, "The Stairhead Battle," which was encored, and "Old Ace," by Fred Emerson Brooks.

Music Was Not Lacking. In making the plans for the evening music was not neglected. Miss Margaret Flaws, of Chicago, sang "The Cottage Where Burns Was Born," and "The Star of Robbie Burns," responding to an encore after the second number. Mrs. S. B. Lewis delighted the audience by the range and sweetness of her voice. She sang "The Roll Call," by Pinsuti, and "The Watcher," by Adam Geibel. Instrumental music was furnished by Professor Fred Spencer, whose first selection was a violin solo, "The Old Soldier's Dream," "The Virtuoso Out West," followed, and then came violin solos with banjo accompaniments and guitar solo with banjo accompaniment. The banjo was played by Master Herbert Spencer, and the little fellow showed his ability as a vocalist as well as at banjo-picking. His song, "I Guess You Have All Been There" elicited an encore.

President James Mills read the following telegram from John M. Driver, president of the Racine Caledonian Society:

"RACINE, Wis., Jan. 26.—Greeting: 'Robbie was a rovin' boy, rantin' rovin' Robin.'"

The audience joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne," and the floor was then cleared for dancing.

ABOUT THE HAIR.

Various Ways in Which the Young Men Now Cultivate Their Topknots.

It is quite entertaining nowadays to study the ways in which the young men wear their hair. Within the past week I have seen two or three quite startling examples of eccentricity and have wondered if the arrangement could be an index of the wearer's mental state, says the Chicago Record.

The foot-ball player's wild and untamed locks have brought him much fame, but he would grow pale with envy should he see the office boy who graces the office of a certain lawyer. His hair is a golden brown, curls charmingly, and on the higher slopes has been allowed to grow to a length of something like five inches. It encircles his head in waves and billows, is parted and brushed to a degree of glossiness that could never have been attained with less than an hour's brushing each day.

And yesterday—there was a black-haired youth with an expansive forehead. His front hair was parted to a nicety exactly in the middle, and draped to each side like a pair of curtains. A sort of sub-curtain looped itself over each ear, and his watch chain was likewise parted and looped to either side in similar curves. He had a pair of black eyes, a tiny mustache and a good opinion of himself.

Did you ever see a young man struggling to part his hair and wear it flat after having been the victim of a pompadour for a number of years? Always he is the pink of neatness and propriety, but one morning he came to the office with most peculiar looking hair. It seemed undecided whether to stand or sit.

The critic came in a few minutes later, his own black locks in immaculate order. "I say," he said, gazing at his companion with a puzzled air, "what is the matter with your hair? Did you forget to comb it?"

The other passed his hand over his rebellious locks with a laugh. "Well, no. I'm trying to train it, you see."

When the pompadour style of hair first came into favor a few years ago I happened to be intimately acquainted with a youngster of 21, who was very careful of his personal appearance. When the new style reached the village in which he dwelt his heart warmed toward it, and he longed for a pompadour of his own. But in vain he brushed and coaxed and combed; he could not make the nice, upright stubble of which he dreamed. At last he hit upon a plan and for a few nights bound tight about his head a band of cloth, holding his hair back. One morning he appeared at the breakfast table wearing a highly satisfied smile, his hair standing upright in the most approved and aggressive manner.

The "Miraculous" or "Holy Thorn."

At Glastonbury abbey in Somersetshire, England, once stood a thorn tree which, it is said, bloomed every Christmas morning. The first authentic account of it ever written was in 1772 by a Mr. Eyston, who tells of it in the account of his visit to the abbey. The keeper assured Mr. Eyston that St. Joseph of Arimathea landed not far from the town at a place where there was formerly an oak that had been planted to his memory; that he and his companions marched to a hill and rested themselves, and that Joseph stuck his staff in the ground. Now this staff was a common, dry, hawthorn stick, but it grew, and first came into full flower on Christmas day. Afterward the tree, which had thus grown and budded like Aaron's rod, always bloomed on the day of our Lord's nativity, and upon no other day, the flower, like that of the night-blooming cereus, lasting but a few hours. Many queer stories have been told of "The Miraculous Thorn of Glastonbury." It was said that if the chips from it were planted they would sprout and grow like potatoes; that the leaves cured all inflammations, swellings, etc., and that "rods" cut from it would never leave marks on the children corrected by their use. —St. Louis Republic.

Billed Her Time.

Mr. Goodlive, to his boarding-house keeper—Yes, madame, we leave to-day to go to house-keeping. My wife and I can't stand tough steak, strong butter, sloppy coffee, and blue milk a day longer. We want tender porterhouse, gilt-edge butter, pure Java coffee and rich cream, and we are going to have it.

Mrs. Slimdiet—Very well. I shall be glad to have you again when you wish to come back.

Mr. Goodlive, a year later—Good morning, Mrs. Slimdiet. My wife and I would like to have our old rooms, if they are vacant.

Mrs. Slimdiet, pleasantly—What was the matter with porterhouse steak, gilt-edge butter, pure Java and rich cream?

Mr. Goodlive, dolefully—They cost too much.

Inherited.

The small boy who applied to the Chicago physician to be vaccinated was so bright-faced the doctor asked him who he was.

"I'm Johnnie Smith," he said, "and my pop's a detective."

"Oh," exclaimed the doctor, "run along little boy, there's no need to vaccinate you; you'll never catch anything."

Scrofula, whether hereditary or acquired, is thoroughly expelled from the blood by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

She Saved Him.

The two girls were talking about the very dullest dude that Detroit had seen on her streets in ages.

"Just think," said one, "what a dreadful mistake the policeman on our beat came near making the other day when Mr. Blank came out of our house."

"Oh, what was it?"

"Why if it hadn't been for me he would have arrested him for making a perfect show of himself in public without a license."

Catarh In The Head.

Is undoubtedly a disease of the blood and as such only a reliable blood purifier can effect a perfect and permanent cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier, and it has cured many very severe cases of catarh.

Catarh oftentimes leads to consumption. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla before it is too late.

He Didn't Give It Away.

The Wrathful Politician—See here, when I told you that story you promised me on your honor to not give it away.

The Guileless Reporter—So I didn't. I sold it. The Daily Hootler gave me $25 for it; see?"

The persistent cough which usually follows an attack of the grip can be permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. W. A. McGuire, of McKay, Ohio, says: "La Grippe left me with a severe cough. After using several medicaments without relief, I tried Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which effected a permanent cure. I have also found it to be without an equal for children, when troubled with colds or croup; 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Palmer & Stevens drug gists."

Hood's Pills do not purge, pain or gripe, but act promptly, easily and efficiently. 25c.

A Contractor's Advice.

Dullman's German Medicine Co.: Gentlemen, I take great pleasure in testifying in behalf of Dullman's German Blood Purifier, and Kidney Cure. I can safely say that I have used such medicine as that to cleanse my stomach and kidneys. I was suffering for years with biliousness, indigestion and loss of appetite, sleep. One bottle of it did me more than six months' other treatment, and I feel it my duty to testify in its behalf, so others may be cured.

Yours truly, Mrs. McDonald, Milano, Mich. For sale by Palmer & Stevens.

A DAILY BIT OF FUN.

The Sole Exception.

She—I really don't think it's nice of you to borrow money from papa so soon after we are engaged.

He—Why, you are the first girl who ever objected to it in all my experience. —Life.

An Imperative Duty.

What greater duty is possible than the care of our health? Until recently it has been impossible for persons living at a distance from large cities to obtain the best medical advice without great expense. This is now obviated so that the poorest persons, in any part of the land, may consult the great medical authority on nervous and chronic diseases, free of charge, and without leaving their homes. Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street New York, the most successful specialist in curing all nervous and chronic diseases has lately adopted the plan of giving the sick everywhere consultation and advice by letter correspondence free of charge.

Write him a description of your complaint and he will return you an explanation of your disease, with advice as to its cure, entirely free of charge. He gives most careful and explicit attention to all letters and will make your case so plain to you that you cannot fail to exactly understand what ails you. Dr. Greene is the discoverer of that wonderful cure, Dr. Greene's Nervous Blood and nerve remedy. He uses nothing but harmless vegetable remedies in his treatment. What sufferer can resist such an opportunity as this to regain health and strength? Write him about your complaint and you will never regret it.

Nothing New.

Miss Gotham—Have you been through the museum of art?

Miss Panhandle—Oh, yes.

Miss Gotham—What did you think of it?

Miss Panhandle, from Cincinnati—Pretty poor. Why, they've got the same things they had last year. —Truth.

CAN'T SEEM TO SUIT THEM.

What a time Mr. Cleveland is having with his appointments! Hornblower didn't suit anybody but the railroads and Peckham doesn't suit Hill. Hill has more reason to hate Peckham than Conkling had to hate Robertson, who Garfield made collector of the port at New York. He however, will not resign if Peckham should be confirmed, but his enmity is a reminder that each of the big parties has been hurt by factional quarrels in the empire state. The democracy was beaten for presidency in 1848 from this cause, and the republicans was overthrown in 1884 on the same account. In 1888, too, the Cleveland-Hill feud was one of the factors which beat the former. This supreme court nomination fight is one of the influences which will lay out the Democrats in 1896.

FIRST ARRAIGN THEN ENDORSE.

It is a curious fact that the law under which Secretary Carlisle proposes to issue bonds was opposed at the time of its passage by all the democrats in congress and denounced by all the democratic convention as a measure of robbery and despotism. Chairman Wilson now says Secretary Carlisle's act is right, but wouldn't it have been better for Chairman Wilson to have deferred consideration of the tariff bill for a few days and used his influence toward getting an act passed to allow the secretary to sell low interest short-hand bonds without establishing a baneful precedent.

Why should congress pass a bill repealing the very sensible law which forbids an American official accepting decorations tendered by foreign governments? Does the present generation care more for these baubles than our sturdy forefathers did? We cannot believe it, although there are indications in some quarters that it does. Let the law alone.

The administration will find all the trouble it can handle on account of that bond issue. That wing of the democratic party that is tinged with populist ideas is flapping wildly and seems determined to either destroy itself or the administration.

A million of Americans ask for work, and the democrats of the house offer them the Cleveland tariff bill. For indifference to suffering this discounts the stone given for bread about one thousand per cent. The unemployed expect better treatment from the senate.

If Senator Voorhees will heed the answers the Senate Finance committee will receive to the questions contained in that circular letter, sixty thousand copies of which have been set out, he will join in killing the Cleveland tariff bill.

Jerry Simpson says he has finally made up his mind to again be a candidate for congress. We trust that his constituents will by November have fully made up their minds to elect Jerry to stay at home.

The starting of a few idle mills with a reduction of force and wages may be in the eyes of democrats signs of a resumption of prosperity, but they are not the kind of signs the country has been given by republican legislation.

"Cold pisen" is an invocation in the free advertising line made by Sarah Bernhardt, who was doubtless jealous of the notoriety some of her sister actresses were getting by marriage.

Congressman Tom Johnson, although a professional free trader, acts on the short but comprehensive platform, "Protect my interest; never mind the rest."

The democratic party has bosses and sub-bosses in profusion, but it has no leader, either in or out of congress.

It looks as if the free traders had a good grip upon the democratic majority of the house.

SIGNED BY A NOTARY.

AN IMPORTANT DOCUMENT AND WHAT WILL COME OF IT.

There is a Great Deal of Human Nature in This Document—To Say Nothing of a Large Amount of Human Needs and Wants

One day recently the prominent notary Carlos L. Smith, Esq., was called upon by a lady, Mrs. G. A. Fisk by name, who resides at Waterbury Centre, Vt., and the following very interesting document was signed and sealed in his presence and its truth July sworn to according to law.

"About three years ago I found myself with a severe nervous trouble in my head. The disease seemed to be all over my head. When I moved my head on my pillow it seemed as though I was going right off the bed on to the floor, my head swam so and I was so dizzy. When I stooped down to light the fire, I had to take hold of the stove to prevent falling to the floor.

"The beginning of my nervous troubles was caused by lifting, straining the nerves in the top of my head. I took treatment from a good many doctors without any permanent relief, my head getting bad at times and gradually becoming worse. I decided that I had to do something different and that quickly.

"I had seen Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy advertised and I determined to give a thorough trial. I commenced to take it immediately began to be better. It has been of the greatest benefit to me. I have not had those dizzy spells since taking the Nervura.

MRS. G. A. FISK.

"The old trouble is gone and my general health is a good deal better. It is Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy which has cured my terrible nervousness and trouble in my head."

Then personally appeared Mrs. G. A. Fisk, and affirmed to the truth of the foregoing statements.

CARLOS L. SMITH, Notary Public.

Now there is scarcely anybody who is perfectly well. Nearly everybody has some trouble, an ache or pain, a weakness, a nerve trouble, something wrong with the stomach or bowels, poor blood or liver and kidney complaint. For any or all of these difficulties Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy offers the surest and most speedy cure. Use it by all means. It is perfectly vegetable and harmless.

Doctors and druggists recommend it to the people because it is a physician's prescription, the discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York, the famous and successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter.

What Will Do It?

Medical writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh is proof positive that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. Our druggists keep it.

A Logical Answer.

Clergyman, to youthful rustic at last examination before confirmation—My boy, what is the meaning of the word repentant?

Boy—Please, sir, I don't know.

"If I stole a loaf of bread what should I be?"

"Please, sir, looked up."

"Well, but if I was, shouldn't I be sorry afterward?"

"Yes, sir."

"Ah, now you see my meaning. Why should I feel sorry?"

"Please, sir, cos you was ketched."

Blood Poisoning

"Twelve years ago my wife was picking raspberries when she scratched herself on a briar, the wound from which soon developed into a running sore, between her knee and ankle. We tried medical skill on every side, with no effect. About a year ago she read of Hood's Sarsaparilla and concluded to try it herself, and while taking the first bottle she felt better and continued with it until today she is entirely cured and a better Mrs. Aughenbaugh than ever. The sore was healed up in seven

ASHTON CONVICTED AFTER BRIEF DELAY.

JUDGE BENNETT GIVES HIS CHARGE AT NOON.

Summing up of the Defense and the State Consumes Much Time—Court Crowded by Curious Throngs Who Are Forced to Stand up in the Aisles And Hall.

At 4:40 o'clock this afternoon the jury in the Stone case brought in a verdict, finding Matthew R. Ashton guilty.

Arguments in the case were ended at noon, and Judge Bennett began his charge at once. He preceded the charge proper with special instructions given at the request of the defendant. These instructions were that positive evidence should be given greater credence than negative, and that the admissions of a party in a suit should be accepted only with due allowance.

The judges charge was extended and entered into minute details of the case. Especial stress was laid upon the importance that frequently attached to circumstantial evidence.

At the close of the judge's charge the case was put in the hands of the jury. The jury went to their chamber at 2:45, after getting dinner.

The arguments in the case have consumed just two days and a half. The last speaker was District Attorney William G. Wheeler.

Meant to Convey No Reproach.

District Attorney Wheeler opened by a declaration that at no time during the trial had any thought of reproach been entertained toward E. F. Carpenter. The state had offered testimony concerning a certain mortgage but it bore upon a different point and there never had been entertained the slightest suspicion of wrong against Mr. Carpenter. Turning to the case proper Mr. Wheeler took up the charge that the prosecution of Ashton was dictated by jealousy. He traced the cause of a case begun by grand jury indictment and argued that the indictment on personal prejudice into such a proceeding was impossible.

One of the serious points for Matthew Ashton in this trial, the speaker said, was the charge of attempted bribery. It would not do to let this pass by saying that Daniel Stone was an ignorant old man who knew no better. No man grows to the age of twenty-five in this country without knowing that murder is a crime which cannot be smoothed over by the use of money. The attorneys for the defense had pictured Ashton as anxious to get into court and explain his whole connection with the Stone case. Was this attempted "settlement" the act of an innocent man "anxious to go into court and tell all that he knows about the case?"

Spangler Was Not to Testify.

Another evidence of the readiness and willingness of this man to meet trial for the murder of Caroline Stone was the deal with Spangler. Three hundred dollars paid to a third party for Marshal Spangler in consideration of Spangler's remaining in Chicago. And then as the trial came nearer another $50 was placed in Lee Brown's hands.

If Spangler was not to be kept in Chicago why did Brown say: "I know George Spangler. If Spangler says he will stay away he will stay away."

That eighty dollars, District Attorney Wheeler insisted, was still in Lee Brown's hands. It was to have been paid to Spangler at the termination of the trial and if Spangler came on the stand that money was never to have been paid.

Ashton's efforts to arouse dissension between Mr. and Mrs. Stone was undeniable, the district attorney insisted. It was finally successful and the old man himself was at last induced to be a party to the scheme. The husband's heart was hardened against the woman he had sworn to honor and protect. He was too sick to come to his wife's funeral but three days later when Ashton went after him he came instantly. What did Ashton tell him or what did he ask as to the manner of his wife's death? Not a word. The poison poured into that old man's ear had done its work well.

It was declared that from first to last the plea offered in Ashton's defense was inconsistent. First came a suggestion of suicide; then came a hint that there was a murder and that Detective Burt committed it, and almost in the same breath came hints of the possible guilt of George Spangler, of James Murwin and of unnamed persons. Equally ridiculous was the assertion that Mrs. Stone jumped into the cistern and closed the door after her. A sun-shiny June morning was the last time in the world to be chosen for suicide.

"If Mrs. Stone had meditated suicide," said District Attorney Wheeler, "she wouldn't have taken that time to spit. She wouldn't have begun her reparations for breakfast; she couldn't have started to kindle the fire in that kitchen stove. If she had anred suicide the deed would have come at a time when she was weary and sad and depressed."

No Evidence of Suicide.

There was not the slightest ground for the belief that Mrs. Stone killed herself while excited over her talk with the detective, the district attorney declared. The testimony of all who saw her Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning was that she was cheerful, collected and full of plans for the coming week.

"The defense has told you that you must construe the evidence whenever possible in the light of the defendant's innocence," said the speaker. "That is all very true, but the jury is not called upon to invent absurdities to explain away that evidence."

District Attorney Wheeler began speaking when court opened this morning. The first of his talk was in rebuttal of the suicide theory of the defendant. It was highly improbable, he said, that Mrs. Stone had looked so far ahead. That she had committed suicide, he said, the defense claimed because she feared arrest for clubbing her husband. That offense would have been punished with a fine of $5, $10 or $15, and $100 was the legal limit. Did it look probable, he asked, that she would kill herself to escape a fine of that small sum. There was nothing to give weight to the accusation anyway. Jealousy, insanity and all the other defenses were equally transparent, he contended.

With reference to the removal of the body from the cistern, he said that if the injuries were produced before death, they did not admit of anything except murder.

"They would have you think that those men when that body was caught and they knew it, pulled upon it as if they wanted to pull the shoulders off," he said.

No Suicidal Conditions.

The other conditions and the fact that the rigor mortis in the shoulders would have been broken by the force of the pulling, was also enlarged upon as well as the conclusion that if such force had been used, marks of the rope would be found under the arms.

The defense had asked, Mr. Wheeler said, why the state had not put William Bradley on the stand to testify as to how the body was got out. Mr. Bradley had changed his testimony since he was before the grand jury. The state, he continued, did not want to convict the defendant by the testimony of such men. His testimony did not amount to anything and without it the state's claims were uncontradicted.

What reason should Burt have to swear to his story if, as Mr. Winans had insinuated, he had committed that murder himself. Pulling on the rope, he said, with no pulley naturally made the men perspire. The friction of the wet rope on the floor was no small matter he insisted. One man, Spangler, had but one arm while another, Burt, was largely engaged in keeping the body straight. This left Bradley alone to pull on the rope. The injuries were ante-mortem, he insisted, and there was nothing to show otherwise. Mr. Hyzer's efforts were directed toward disparaging the testimony of Dr. Palmer and Dr. Mills and of all the state's witnesses. The defense were desperate enough, he affirmed, that they must destroy the testimony and character of men against whom a word had never been spoken before. Dr. Palmer needed no plaudits, Mr. Wheeler continued, and his services to community, state and nation were recognized.

Would Not Swear Falsely.

"Do I need to state that Dr. Palmer would not come here to perjure himself?" he went on. "He was called upon by the officers of the court."

Mr. Wheeler devoted some time to the charges made against Dr. Palmer and scoffed at the statement that "Dr. Palmer liked to occupy a pedestal and pose as a discoverer" and held that it was impossible that the doctor would make an "intentional discovery," that would send Ashton to prison for life. There was no use making such charges; the people knew Dr. Palmer and Mills too well to believe that they had sworn falsely when bound by an oath. There was nothing contradictory in the doctor's notes as the defense well knew. He had simply told what he found in the examinations and there was nothing in the notes to indicate any shading in favor of either side. If his testimony had stood alone no one would discredit it, for no man with his reputation for honor would swear another's life away for a little self glory as a "discoverer." The state didn't need to manufacture evidence, all they wanted was justice. There were two questions for the jury to decide.

First, "was there a murder?"

Second, "if so, did Matthew Ashton commit it?"

The conditions that existed in cases of death by drowning were enlarged upon and those that the defense claimed to have existed were described as well as those that were missing. The latter predominated he said and the evidence that did exist was of a minor character. The windpipe did not necessarily have to be fractured in case of death by strangulation.

No Medical Testimony Spoken.

That a doctor had been mistaken upon a minute point of anatomy did not make any difference. The material fact had not been changed. Lawyers and doctors both had to read up on any unusual case to be able to give a positive opinion. The state had no witnesses who had to drown dogs in order to qualify as an expert in the case, he said. The state's witnesses were men of large experience; state experts who had performed from 2,500 post mortems down could not be compared to men one of whom had never held a postmortem on a drowned person and the others who had a very limited experience in that line.

That the teeth were found in the cistern was a strong fact, he said. They could not fall out in getting the body out of the cistern when the jaws were closed in death's stiffness. They were either lost in putting the body into the cistern head foremost or dislodged in the scuffle and thrown in. "They say there must have been a noise when Mrs. Stone was killed," he said. "Mrs. Stone was an old woman, and afflicted with rheumatism. Ashton is a big strong man, who would tower above that old woman; she'd be a mere baby in his grip. With one hand he would prevent both struggle and disturbance. Don't you suppose that he would steal upon that old woman, with the thousands of old Dan Stone behind him, and jump on her unawares and kill her without a struggle? I think you do. It was not a murder in the heat of passion; it was a cruel, diabolical, assassination, and committed for money."

Not $50,000 but $200,000 furnished Ashton with a motive for murder. Ashton knew, the district attorney insisted, that the malevolence he had shown toward Mrs. Stone might react upon him at any time and the will in his favor be broken. All the facts in the case pointed in one way, and that was directly and conclusively toward the guilt of Matthew Ashton. He had not engaged in the project alone. He had his wife as a comrade and partner in his scheme.

"In what other way could her fondling of old Daniel Stone be interpreted?" asked the speaker. "What else did her visit to the old man's room mean? Only in her night gown dressed?"

There was an interruption at this point. Attorney Hyzer was on his feet with an objection. The court sustained the objection, holding that Mrs. Stone's declaration as to Mrs. Ashton's visit to Stone was admitted simply to show Mrs. Stone's mental condition and could not be used in any other way.

Attorney Wheeler closed his speech at noon.

Has Little Faith in Experts.

Before Attorney Hyzer closed yesterday afternoon he made the cynical assertion that "a medical expert will swear to almost anything." Dr. Hecktoen, he declared based his opinion that Mrs. Stone was dead before she went into the cistern on facts that were not included in the post mortem developments. It was an undoubted fact, said Attorney Hyzer, that every time a few doctors got together each one would be filled with an ambition to find something that the other doctors have not found. That was the spirit that resulted in this prosecution. Drs. Lord and McManus discovered, and it was a sure thing that the next two doctors who went they would discover something. "They did discover something," said Attorney Hyzer, "they have been discovering something new from time to time ever since."

Leaving the medical testimony Mr. Hyzer cited points brought forward by other witnesses. There had been an assumption of guilt because Ashton suggested searching the cistern and threw open the cistern door. This assumption was incredible. It did not lie in human possibilities that any man should walk forward boldly and bring to sight of neighbors and officers of the law the disfigured body of his victim.

It has been said that Ashton had a motive for murdering Mrs. Stone. The evidence showed he had no motive. The will was not a motive for her murder; it was a motive for letting her live. Under that will he was to have the enjoyment of two thirds of the property at once and the entire property after the death of this woman already sixty-one years of age.

A sensational Rock county case is now before the circuit court at Madison. It is the noted slander and libel case from Edgerton of Carrie F. Ford against the Rev. Father James E. Bowe. The parties are cousins, but there has been a feud of long standing between them. The offenses charged are that Father Bowe sent Mrs. Ford comic valentines which contained objectionable inscriptions, applying to both her and her husband, and also sending her derogatory letters through the mail. The defendant admitted the sending of the missives. The attorneys for the defense waived their opening statement, leaving their defense to be developed as the case proceeds. The taking of testimony has commenced.

A MODEL SAVAGE.

King of a Country of Savages and the Good Work He Has Done.

King Khama is a model savage. If a black man who has been thoroughly civilized by European and missionary influences can still be called one. He is an autocrat of the best possible type, whose influence in his country is entirely thrown into the scale of virtue for the suppression of vice. Such a thing as theft is unknown in his realm; he will not allow his subjects to make or drink beer. "Beer is the source of all quarrels," he says; "I will stop it." He has put a stop also to the existence of witch doctors and their wives throughout all the Bamangwato, says the Contemporary Review.

He conducts in person services every Sunday in his large, round kotla, or place of assembly, standing beneath the tree of justice and the wide canopy of heaven in a truly patriarchal style. He is keen in the suppression of all superstitions, and eats publicly the flesh of the dukker, a sort of roebuck, which was formerly the totem of the tribe, and held as sacred among them twenty years ago. The late King Sikkomo, Khama's father, would not so much as step on a dukker skin, and it is still looked upon with more veneration by his subjects than Khama would wish.

As an instance of Khama's power and judgment, it is sufficient for us to quote the sudden change of his capital from Shoshong to the present site, Palapwe. Shoshong was in a strong position, where the Bamangwato could effectually protect themselves from the Matabele raids under Lobengula, but it was badly supplied with water, and in dry seasons the inhabitants suffered greatly from drought. The change of capital had been a subject discussed for years, but Khama waited quietly until the people began to think that he was against it and would never move. He waited, in fact, until he was sure of British protection, until he knew that Lobengula could not attack his people at Palapwe without embroiling himself in a war with England.

Then suddenly one day, new five years ago, without any prefatory warning King Khama gave orders for the move and the exodus began on the next day, and in two months' time 15,000 individuals were located in their new capital, sixty miles away from Shoshong. Under Khama's direction everything was conducted in the best possible order; every man was given his allotted ground and told to build his huts thereon. Not a single dispute arose and no one would imagine to-day that only a few years ago Palapwe was uninhabited.

Khama in manner and appearance is thoroughly a gentleman, dignified and courteous; he wears well-made European clothes; a billy-cock hat and gloves, in his hand he brandishes a dainty cane and he pervades everything in his country with a about from point to point wherever his presence is requested, and if he is just a little too much of a dandy it is an error in his peculiar case in the right direction.

AN UNKNOWN AUTHOR.

But He Makes $16,000 Every Year by Writing.

I was sitting in a New York club a few evenings ago when there was pointed out to me a man described by my informant as "one of the most successful literary men in America," writes E. W. Bok in the Minneapolis Times. When I learned his name, I had never heard of it or seen it in print. And yet, as I ascertained, this man had a regular income of $16,000 each year from the results of his pen. He was a writer of pirate stories for boys, and of stories of factory life for working girls. He wrote entirely for the cheap story weeklies—wrote eight serial stories each year—four of each kind—and the publishers gladly paid him $2,000 apiece for these productions. "Of course," he said, "I know nothing about pirates or pirate life, and those stories are works of the imagination—in fact, I have often longed to see a pirate to see if my descriptions were at all like the original article. Factory life I study, and study closely, and this is the most interesting part of my work. The actual writing is mere mechanism. Oh, yes, I could do more work, for it takes me about three weeks to write a 40,000 word story, and so I have more than half of the year on my hands. But my salary is adequate for a good living, and with the royalties derived from my stories in book form—amounting to about $3,000 additional—I educated my two daughters. No, bless you, no! They don't know their father's work. They never see it—in fact, I do not believe I have met a dozen people who read what I write. It isn't the highest class of literary work, of course, and I wouldn't take it up if I had to start over again. But I am too old to change now, and an income of $21,000 per year is not easy to obtain in the legitimate channels of literary work."

The Complexion of a Chinese

Is not yellower than that of an unfortunate individual whose liver complaint has assumed the chronic form. The eyeballs of the sufferer assume a saffron hue, there is dull pain in the region of the organ affected, the tongue is coated, each sour, sick headaches usually but not always occur, and there is sometimes dizziness arising from a sitting posture. Constipation and dyspepsia are also attendants of this very common ailment, always in its aggravated form, liable to breed abscesses of the liver, which are very dangerous. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which eradicates it as well as the troubles connected with it and which it originates. In chills and fever, a complaint which always yields to the Bitters, the liver is seriously involved. This fine alternate tonic removes constiveness and indigestion, rheumatic, nervous and kidney trouble and debility.

SCIENTIFIC ANARCHISTS.

Remarkable and Romantic Records of the Famous Reclus Brothers.

Ever since Auguste Vaillant threw the bomb that frightened the chamber of deputies, our French exchanges have been talking about the famous Reclus family of socialists. Paul Reclus was charged with complicity in the Vaillant outrage and fled to London before he could be arrested. At the trial Vaillant admitted that he had received 20 francs from the wife of Paul Reclus, but said she gave the money in charity and not as a subscription to the cause of anarchy.

ELISEE RECLUS.

Paul Reclus is 47 years old and has a brilliant reputation as a physician and surgeon. It is a remarkable fact that this man, who is said to sympathize with anarchy, has a horror of the sight of blood and at an operation suffers all the pain of the patient.

There are five of the Reclus brothers, and they are all socialists and freethinkers, although their father was a Protestant minister and they were brought up under religious influences. They are all clever, but their peculiar opinions have cost them dear from a worldly point of view. Jacques Elisee Reclus is the most distinguished of the brothers. He was born in 1830 and was graduated at the University of Berlin. In early life he came to America and here had a romantic and remarkable experience. He entered the employ of a cotton planter who had an only daughter. One day the girl told her father that she was determined to marry Elisee Reclus. The young man accepted on condition that the father should at once emancipate all the slaves in his service. The cotton grower naturally enough refused to do so, and Reclus out of spite married a negress. Reclus had two daughters and then lost his wife. He married a second time, suppressing the religious ceremony and celebrating only the civil marriage. This second wife died, and then Reclus married a third time, suppressing both the religious and civil ceremonies.

Jacques Elisee Reclus is known throughout the world for his magnificent and scholarly work, "Nouvelle Geographie Universelle," which he began in 1875 and which last year obtained the gold medal from the Geographical Society of Paris. He is a socialist in politics and laid down the pen and took up the sword in 1871 during the exciting days of the commune in Paris, and the army of Versailles captured him with his weapon in his hand. The learned geographer was condemned to deportation for life, and in prison he was awaiting his transfer to a convict ship.

Elisee was then 41 years old and was already celebrated as a geographical authority. The hopes of his life, all the brilliant promise of his literary career, seemed in a moment blasted. The news of his great misfortune shocked the scientific men of all nations. In England they were prompt to act, and a petition signed by Darwin and other scientific men of eminence in the country was addressed to Thiers.

The petitioners said that the life of such a man as Elisee Reclus, who had already rendered brilliant services to science and literature, gave promise of still greater services in his vigorous maturity. They expressed the view that such a man belonged not only to the country that gave him birth, but to the entire world, and that in reducing him to silence and sending him to languish far from the center of civilization France would cripple his talents and lessen his legitimate influence upon the world.

The appeal was heard, and the penalty of deportation was commuted to a sentence of perpetual banishment from France. From that time until recently he never set foot upon his native soil. It was in Italy and Switzerland that he labored for 17 years on his "New Universal Geography," and the former political convict has produced on an average a volume a year.

The eldest of the Reclus brothers is Michel Elie, who was born in 1827. He was educated among the Moravian brothers at Neuwend-sur-la-Rhein and studied theology at Geneva, Montauban and Strasburg. He was exiled in 1851, returned to France four years later, entered the Credit Mobilier and busied himself in the co-operative associations. During the commune he was named director of the National library, and subsequently condemned for usurping the functions thereof, was sentenced to imprisonment, but he fled to Zurich and afterward went to London. M. Elie collaborated with his brother Elisee in the introduction to the "Dictionary of the Communes of France" and under an assumed name has published articles in many newspapers and foreign reviews.

Onesime Reclus was born in 1837. After studying in Germany he served in Algeria in the zouaves. Then he visited besides Africa, many European countries. He has published several works, chief among which is "La Terre a vol d'Oiseau," one of the most brilliant descriptive works in the French language. His benevolence is not a matter of theory, but of practice. One day he gave 1,500 francs, every sou he possessed in the world, to relieve the embarrassment of a comrade.

Armand Reclus was born in 1843. He entered the navy in 1860 and was promoted to the rank of lieutenant in 1871. He was made ordnance officer under M. Jaureguiberry and has been associated with Bonaparte Wyse in the Panama isthmus explorations. He is also the author of several technical works. He received the decoration of the Legion of Honor for his courage in the Franco-German war.

The Bible Changed His Luck.

"The most peculiar use I ever saw made of a Bible," said a St. Louis man, "was in Cincinnati. A gambling house there was conducted by a man named De Bardeleben. One night an agent who sold Bibles for a living sat down at the table and lost steadily until he was broke. The only thing payable in his possession was his sample Bible, and the dealer let him have $1 on it. The agent's luck changed at once. He played all night and all the next day, and by 3 o'clock in the afternoon the Bible and the furniture constituted the sole assets of that gambling room."

"W. F. Hayes examined my eyes, and fitted glasses to them. He understands his business and I have no hesitancy in recommending him as a thorough and reliable optician. Rev. C. J. Koerner."

The following speaks in the highest of terms:

"I have had a great deal of trouble with my eyes, and it seemed almost impossible for me to get a pair of spectacles I could use. I finally went to Mr. Hayes, and after examining my eyes he told me they were not alike, and required different lenses. He fitted the glasses I am now wearing, and I have had no trouble since. Mr. Hayes is perfect in the profession, and would advise any one wearing glasses to consult him, as he can and will relieve you wonderfully. PROF. J. C. ZINCK.
